

Red Cross War Fund Drive Is "Over The Top"

A $50 donation Friday evening by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Bendersville fire company put the Adams county Red Cross "over the top" in its $26,500 War Relief campaign which ended last midnight.

Additional contributions this morning were increasing the total. Officials of the Red Cross estimate that the final figures will be over $27,000 when some sums still known to be outstanding are turned in.

The Bendersville women's group's donation, along with some smaller sums were reported Friday night to the heads of the Upper Adams county district which had already turned in $5,153.96 to lead all of the districts of the county by at least $1,500. The second largest sum turned in by any one district is the business district of Gettysburg which up to 4 o'clock Friday afternoon had donated $3,536.85. Littlestown is third with $3,322.08.

Receive $26,513.40

Up to 10 o'clock this morning $26,513.40 had been turned in by solicitors, but the amount was credited to Friday, with all of it having been collected on that day. Approximately $75 was turned in Friday night at the Hotel Gettysburg, where arrangements were made to receive donations throughout the night. Largest amount turned in there was $50 from the local Moose lodge.

The Fairfield-Ortanna district turned in $100.60 late Friday afternoon and $346.05 was received from the New Oxford district at the same time.

The amounts donated by districts up to late Friday were announced as follows:

Two Soldiers Donate

Among the last minute contributors were two soldiers, Pfc. Richard H. Eckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Eckert, Springs avenue, and Cpl. William Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Rice, Baltimore street, each of whom gave $5.

The teachers and students of the third and fourth grades of Hamilton township consolidated school gave $3.65 and Pitzer's school gave $1. The Little Thursday club added $10 to its donations to bring to $25 the amount given so far. Mr. and Mrs. R. Blaine Kitzmiller donated $25, as did Dr. and Mrs. Walter S. Mountain. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Raffensperger turned in $10 additional.

Miss Ruth Koontz, 15-year-old Aspers girl who is believed to be the youngest solicitor in the county brought the amount she has collected to $128.

Additional contributions are being sought by the Red Cross, because, it was pointed out today, every dime given to the Red Cross will be needed during the year ahead. Because of the services rendered by the organization, the increased number of men going into the service and the expected increase in casualties when the impending invasion begins, will greatly increase the work and consequently the expenditures of the Red Cross.

Seminarian Will Speak In Fairfield

The Rev. Richard Drummond, member of the graduating class of the Lutheran Seminary, will be the speaker at a public Lenten Service to be held in Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The services are under the auspices of the Fairfield Christian Endeavor societies.

Miss Barbara Henderson, a member of the senior society will have charge of the meeting. The Rev. Drummond will take as his sermon theme, "What Can I Believe About the Sacraments?" The last of the series of Services will be held next Sunday evening. It will be a picture story of the Oberammergau Passion Play.

Graduates From Mechanics School

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., April 1—Pvt. Boyd Walker, who entered the B-24 Liberator bomber mechanics school here approximately 17 weeks ago, was graduated today from this unit of the Army Air Forces Training Command.

Pvt. Walker, son of Mrs. Flossie Walker, York Springs, will go either to active line duty servicing the four-engine airplane, to aerial gunnery school or to a factory school for specialized training in maintenance of big craft.

ROAD PATCHING IN GETTYSBURG TO START SOON

The holes dug by the Gettysburg Gas Corporation to repair leaks in gas lines and for other improvements, and other holes in streets of Gettysburg, depressed during the winter months, will be repaired this spring and summer. Leroy H. Winebrenner, borough engineer and superintendent of streets and sewers, announced today.

The new street patching machine which borough council purchased some time ago is expected to arrive within a week. The apparatus was shipped out of Cleveland on March 24. It is fully equipped and will be used to patch holes in Gettysburg's streets to make them "as good as new."

Overhaul Equipment

The borough roller and trucks have been overhauled and are in good repair for the spring and summer program.

Mr. Winebrenner said that he is in need of a laborer who can also drive a truck to join the borough street crew.

It was explained that the large holes dug by the Gas company will be cleaned out and filled with eight inches of concrete and surfaced with two inches of amesite. The patching material will be applied hot the same as the original street was laid.

Work will start on patching and filling some of the holes dug last fall within a week or so. It is necessary to permit traffic over the presently filled holes for about three months before the final patching is done, so as to prevent further depressions after the amesite has been applied. Crushed rock has been placed in the holes. Some "sinks" of two inches and more have developed in some of the holes, Mr. Winebrenner said.

Will Rush Work

It was also explained that weather conditions have considerable to do with successful patching.

Under borough ordinances those responsible for the digging of holes in the streets must keep them in repair and useable for traffic over the temporary fills until the borough takes over for the permanent patching. The usual time in such cases is three months.

Mr. Winebrenner said that he appreciates the position of motorists who complain about the poor condition of the temporary fills in the holes and that everything is being done to make borough traffic safe and as convenient as possible. He also said that all the patching would be done just as quickly as possible.

SGT. STONER IS AWARDED MEDAL IN S. PACIFIC

Staff Sergeant Kenneth A. Stoner, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stoner, Gettysburg R. 2, was awarded the Air Medal on February 25 by Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding the United States Army Forces in the South Pacific area.

Sergeant Stoner, who serves with the 13th AAF, went overseas last August, exactly a year after he entered the service.

The honor was conferred upon Stoner for his performance as "an aerial radio operator-gunner from November 23, 1943."

Year of Training

Sergeant Stoner attended the Hamiltonban township consolidated school and was graduated from the Fairfield high school in the class of 1940. Before he entered service on August 17, 1942, he was employed by the Landis Tool company at Waynesboro.

Upon his induction he was assigned to the Army Air Force Technical Training Command. He received aerial gunnery training in Florida and instruction in radio work at Madison, Wisconsin, and Columbia, South Carolina.

ROTARY SPEAKER

Milo Gallinger, Guernsey, manufacturer of hand weaving looms and a member of the local club, will be the speaker Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Rotary club at the YWCA at 6 o'clock.

HARTMAN DOES NOT ANTICIPATE LOCUST ATTACK

County Agent M. T. Hartman said today that he does not expect "swarms of locusts" in Adams county this year and that the prediction of State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst may not apply to any extensive area of this county.

Mr. Hartman said that the regular 17-year cycle is not due this year, that the most serious recent outbreak was six or seven years ago when some young orchards in the county were ruined.

The County Agent said the "swarms" this year may be of a minor nature and that he does not anticipate any serious pestilence.

Orchardists of the Southern Pennsylvania fruit belt were told that according to predictions, Brood I of the "seventeen-year locust" is due to invade Franklin, Adams and Cumberland counties in late May.

The warning came from Miles Horst, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, Thursday night just before he addressed members of the Waynesboro Rotary club and their farmer guests.

Expect Damage

The coming of the 17-year pests may cause serious damage to fruit and other trees and plants, but nothing compared with that which may come next year when Brood II of the periodical cicade will make its appearance over a much larger area along the Atlantic Seaboard from Connecticut to North Carolina.

Last appearance of Brood I in Pennsylvania was in 1927 and Brood II was in 1929. After their summer of life in the open in those years, Secretary Horst explained to newspapermen the offspring burrowed into the ground about a foot deep.

Everybody's Holiday

Today is the day when: Hundreds of people will seriously inform hundreds of others that the war is over:

Small boys will find bricks to hide under hats and walls behind which to hide while watching to see what happens thereafter:

Someone will attach a string to a pocketbook and then drop the pocketbook on a busy sidewalk:

Many parents were awakened by their children to "look at the snow":

School youngsters will inform others that school is going to close for the summer on Monday:

Every inconceivable possibility will be explored as a possible tale to tell the unwary:

Other hundreds will ignore well-intentioned warning—such as the old stand-by, "Your face is dirty" because they remember what day it is and then will discover the informant was not joking.

In other words today is the day that is traditionally everybody's holiday—"All Fool's Day!"

REGISTER IS RUSHED WITH APRIL 1 WORK

Today was Adams county's annual "clean-up" day, the day traditionally set aside for paying off mortgages, selling properties, moving, and similar activities.

While the day has deteriorated from the position it held years ago when banks were flooded with customers and "flitting" were to be seen throughout the county, the office of the county register and recorder was traditionally busy over the April 1 period.

Approximately 50 papers, most of them deeds, and including mortgages, powers of attorney and similar papers, have been filed at the register's office during the last three days.

Among the deeds are: Carmen H. and Annie M. Myers, Reading township, sold to J. Arnold and Dorothy A. Smith, New Oxford, two properties in Tyrone township totalling $150.

Vinnie L. and Edna Elcholtz, Gettysburg, sold to Robert R. and Teresa I. Roberts, same place, a lot on South Washington street.

Other Transfers

S. Catharine Keefer, Huntington township, and others, heirs of the late E. C. Keefer, sold to W. Oscar and Lillie Hinkle, Tyrone township, a 178-acre property partly in Tyrone and partly in Huntington townships.

Della Paxton, Huntington township, sold to Glenn A. and Reba A. Darr, same place, two properties containing 24-acres partly in Huntington and partly in Latimore townships.

Alexis P. and Adelaide Wood Minos, Franklin township, sold to Floyd and Ruth D. Sheets, Merrick, Long Island, a nine acre property in Franklin township.

C. Elizabeth and Webster Snyder, Mt. Pleasant township, sold to Harner and Mazie V. Fissel, Cumberland township, two properties containing 15 acres in Mt. Pleasant township.

Deiphus F. and Mamie V. Meckley, Hamilton township, sold to Vinko V. and Rena Polz, Hamilton township, a 90 acre property in Hamilton township.

125 COUNTIANS ARE R. C. BLOOD DONORS FRIDAY

Because 78, or more than one-third, of the Adams countians who were given "appointments to save a life" at the Red Cross Blood Donor station Friday failed to appear, the number of donations was kept to 125, the smallest number received here in any month this year but yet above the average number received on each visit in 1943.

Friday's donors brought the grand total received through the Gettysburg center in the College Lutheran church basement to 1,670. Last year's total was 1,242 while 167 gave blood here in January and 136 in February.

Thirty-five persons gave blood for the first time here Friday and 34 made their second contribution of blood to be used to help meet the increasing need for plasma.

Silver Medals for 22

Twenty-two qualified for their silver medals as third-time donors and 34 others moved nearer "Gallon Club" membership by making their fourth, fifth and seventh visits. All donors received a small "Red Cross donor" emblem similar to the War Fund-contributors—"sticker"—for display in windows. Donors giving blood for the first time received a bronze button. Only 17 persons were rejected Friday, an unusually low number.

Mrs. Madelyn King, McKnightstown, who gave blood five times in California before coming to Adams county, was one of two persons making their seventh donations. The other was Hugh C. McIlhenny, Harrisburg road. There were no six-time donors Friday.

Those giving their fifth pint included: Mrs. Charles Rosensteel, Steinwehr avenue; Paul Arnsberger, Gardners; Mrs. W. A. Dillman, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. John W. Dear-dorf, Sr., Biglerville; John W. Dear-dorf, Sr., Biglerville; Clyde A. Williams, Arendtsville; Councilman Fred Hummelbaugh, Buford avenue.

HOWARD C. HARTLEY

Howard C. Hartley, merchant, churchman, husband, father and solid citizen has passed to his eternal reward. He lived four score years in plain and simple fashion. Without fanfare he devoted his life to his family, his business and his church.

Death, as it does to all men, came to him early Friday morning. He suffered a heart attack from which he never recovered. His passing was as simple and quiet as his very life had been.

Howard Hartley was a good man, an active churchman, a methodical business man and a good provider. He will be remembered for these noble qualities. He was modest and temperate in all things. He shied from public spotlight. His church work, his business and his own fireside were his worldly pleasures.

For more than a half century he maintained a business and operated it on a simple and even keel. The trend to modernism had no appeal for him. He even frowned on cash registers, preferring the old-style counter-cash drawers. He was an honest, upright gentleman of the old school and he treated his fellow man with tolerance and respect. His reputation for honesty and fairness was widespread.

He walked to and from his work four times a day. One could almost set his clock by his passing, so punctual was he in this and all other things. His life was as sound and as conservative as the merchandise he sold. Dependable to the ninth degree Howard Hartley enjoyed the respect and admiration of the entire community.

His passing came as a shock. His absence will be long felt.

There is but one consolation . . . Howard Hartley, a good man, has gone to his justly earned eternal reward.

London, April 1 (AP)—The Berlin radio said today that Red Army spearheads have reached the northern approaches of Jablonica Pass, leading through the Carpathian mountains into Czechoslovakia. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The pass is approximately 15 miles south of Delatyn, captured by Russian troops on Thursday. Moscow's Saturday communique failed to mention any advances beyond that point. The Pass of the Tatars is a few miles east.

Berlin called the drive on Odessa from the north by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army a "strong Soviet offensive wedge," and described another Soviet force as aiming at Iasi, across the Prut river, and still another as operating on a broad front near Brody and Kovel in old Poland.

Drive on Odessa

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, April 1 (AP)—German and Rumanian resistance in southwest Russia was beginning to crumble today as masses of Red Army infantry, mobile units of tanks, and Stormovik bombers swept on towards three major objectives—Odessa, Tiraspol and Kishinev.

Front line Soviet dispatches said one intermediate line after another was cracking. These reports said many Rumanians were willingly surrendering as the Russians drove through middle Bessarabia toward Kishinev.

Wild confusion was reported in Odessa as Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian Army and Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army closed on the Black Sea port from the east and north-east and other units rushed for the Tiraspol railway junction on the lower Dnieper where they could cut the enemy off. The Soviets have captured the main outposts of Odessa.

Near Frontiers

At the northern end of the Ukrainian front, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's troops drew up before the Rumanian and Czechoslovak frontiers.

Soviet dispatches gave no news of any thrusts across the borders. Apparently Zhukov was consolidating his position as Konev did when he reached the Prut.

A Soviet communique said Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army was driving deep into the Odessa-Tiraspol sector after capturing more than 260 towns and hamlets yesterday—one of the largest single day's bag of the southern offensive.

Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian Army simultaneously was reported to have stormed the fortress town of Ochakov, 40 miles east of Odessa in a rapid advance on the great port from the east. Russian Marines aided in the operation, the communique said.

Rapidly shifting the main weight of its drive, the Red Army now appeared to be exerting the most intense pressure on the eastern end of the front in an all-out effort to clear the last remaining Germans from south Russia, dispatches said.

ARMY RESERVE PROGRAM STILL A MOOT ISSUE

There are no new developments in the status of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program. It was announced today at the college. It is not known when the final orders for the closing of the Air Corps program will be issued. No new units have been received here in two months.

Washington, April 1—The War Department revealed today that more than 120,000 students in the Army Air Force air crew training program will be withdrawn from 81 colleges as of June 30, 1944. An additional number of students will be withdrawn from 11 civilian flying schools by August 4.

The Department said the action will affect only air crew students, that is student pilots, bombardiers, navigators, radio men and gunners, but will not change the status of AAF personnel currently in—the Army specialized training program. (Please Turn to Page 2)

In Pacific

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, April 1 (AP)—American naval task forces, including some of the more than 50 aircraft carriers just disclosed to be providing the Pacific, were protected today by a radio silence which prevented reports of the devastation wrought on Palau, Japanese sea base guarding the approaches to the Philippines.

But more reports came of supporting air blows being rained on Truk, boldly bypassed by the fleet which moved 1,175 miles west of it to open the assault on Palau Wednesday.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, whose last word concerning the Palau operation was that "Our attacks continue," announced yesterday that five island strongpoints of Truk's atoll were pounded Wednesday night by Army Liberators of the Seventh Airforce.

In Italy

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 1 (AP)—Allied troops have made a sudden thrust in the ruggedly mountainous and long static central sector of the Italian front, advancing a mile and occupying Mt. Marone, a mile-high peak about 13 miles northeast of Cassino, headquarters announced today.

The height was seized by troops of unidentified nationality who smashed forward under powerful artillery support.

In Cassino, meanwhile, Allied heavy guns again shelled the monastery overlooking the devastated town and observers saw the walls collapsing around the German positions. Two German raiding parties—one about 40 strong—were beaten back from the vicinity of the Cassino railway station.

Shelled From Sea

Two American destroyers hammered the German positions near Carroceto on the Anzio beachhead and Allied infantry repelled a small but sharp attack on their left flank.

Artillery exchanges and patrol clashes marked the snowbound Eighth Army front. Small enemy parties were dispersed.

Allied Air Forces in Italy were forced by the weather to reduce their activities to about 650 sorties, but the systematic campaign to smash German communications continued with fighter-bomber attacks against bridges along the east coast of Italy. Two Allied planes were lost.

In Burma

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

New Delhi, April 1 (AP)—A Japanese patrol operating well ahead of its main force has stabbed to within a dozen miles of Imphal, Allied base on the Indian plain of Manipur, but the fighting on the approaches to the town has become somewhat stabilized on a wide arc as Allied air power dealt furious blows to the enemy columns.

The patrol thrusting nearest to Imphal was operating eight to 10 miles ahead of the main force around Ukhrul, to the northeast.

The Japanese-controlled Singapore radio asserted last night that the Japanese had captured the Masha road junction between Imphal and Kohima.

Admit Buying Tires Taken Here

Two West Shore men, arrested Tuesday for allegedly buying 15 stolen tires, among them tires stolen from Dale's Tire Shop, have admitted the charges. Justice William Dosh, Carlisle, said Friday. The justice said both indicated plans to enter pleas of guilty at the weekly sessions of Cumberland county court on Tuesday.

They are: Lewis A. Johnson, 26, of Camp Hill, who is in the County prison at Carlisle in default of $500 bail, and William R. Shank, 28, of New Cumberland. According to information lodged by state police from Harrisburg, Johnson accepted five new tires and one used tire, and Shank seven new tires and two used tires.

The tires, police said, were stolen by Frank Keleman, Harrisburg, from Dale Lawver, Harrisburg Road, and Wilmont Keller, Marysville. Keleman is being prosecuted in Adams county.

SGT. STONER IS AWARDED MEDAL IN S. PACIFIC

Staff Sergeant Kenneth A. Stoner, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stoner, Gettysburg R. 2, was awarded the Air Medal on February 25 by Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding the United States Army Forces in the South Pacific area.

Sergeant Stoner, who serves with the 13th AAF, went overseas last August, exactly a year after he entered the service.

The honor was conferred upon Stoner for his performance as "an aerial radio operator-gunner from November 23, 1943."

Year of Training Sergeant Stoner attended the Hamiltonian township consolidated school and was graduated from the Fairfield high school in the class of 1940. Before he entered service on August 17, 1942, he was employed by the Landis Tool company at Waynesboro.

Upon his induction he was assigned to the Army Air Force Technical Training Command. He received aerial gunnery training in Florida and instruction in radio work at Madison, Wisconsin, and Columbia, South Carolina.

His parents hear from him with fair regularity and recently learned that he had been to New Zealand on a rest trip after months of action in the battle zone.

HARTMAN DOES NOT ANTICIPATE LOCUST ATTACK

County Agent M. T. Hartman said today that he does not expect "swarms of locusts" in Adams county this year and that the prediction of State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst may not apply to any extensive area of this county.

Mr. Hartman said that the regular 17-year cycle is not due this year, that the most serious recent outbreak was six or seven years ago when some young orchards in the county were ruined.

The County Agent said the "swarms" this year may be of a minor nature and that he does not anticipate any serious pestilence.

Orchardists of the Southern Pennsylvania fruit belt were told that according to predictions, Brood I of the "seventeen-year locust" is due to invade Franklin, Adams and Cumberland counties in late May.

The warning came from Miles Horst, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, Thursday night just before he addressed members of the Waynesboro Rotary club and their farmer guests.

Expect Damage

The coming of the 17-year pests may cause serious damage to fruit and other trees and plants, but nothing compared with that which may come next year when Brood II of the periodical cicade will make its appearance over a much larger area along the Atlantic Seaboard from Connecticut to North Carolina.

Last appearance of Brood I in Pennsylvania was in 1927 and Brood II was in 1929. After their summer of life in the open in those years, Secretary Horst explained to newspapermen the offspring burrowed into the ground about a foot deep.

Everybody's Holiday

Today is the day when: Hundreds of people will seriously inform hundreds of others that the war is over;

Small boys will find bricks to hide under hats and walls behind which to hide while watching to see what happens thereafter;

Someone will attach a string to a pocketbook and then drop the pocketbook on a busy sidewalk;

Many parents were awakened by their children to "look at the snow";

School youngsters will inform others that school is going to close for the summer on Monday;

Every inconceivable possibility will be explored as a possible tale to tell the unwary;

Other hundreds will ignore well-intentioned warning—such as the old stand-by, "Your face is dirty" because they remember what day it is and then will discover the informant was not joking.

In other words today is the day that is traditionally everybody's holiday—"All Fool's Day!"

REGISTER IS RUSHED WITH APRIL 1 WORK

Today was Adams county's annual "clean-up" day, the day traditionally set aside for paying off mortgages, selling properties, moving, and similar activities.

While the day has deteriorated from the position it held years ago when banks were flooded with customers and "flittin'" were to be seen throughout the county, the office of the county register and recorder was traditionally busy over the April 1 period.

Approximately 50 papers, most of them deeds, and including mortgages, powers of attorney and similar papers, have been filed at the register's office during the last three days.

Among the deeds are: Carmen H. and Annie M. Myers, Reading township, sold to J. Arnold and Dorothy A. Smith, New Oxford, two properties in Tyrone township totalling $150.

Vinnie L. and Edna Elcholtz, Gettysburg, sold to Robert R. and Teresa I. Roberts, same place, a lot on South Washington street.

Other transfers S. Catharine Keefe, Huntington township, and others, heirs of the late E. C. Keefe, sold to W. Oscar and Lillie Hinkle, Tyrone township, a 178-acre property partly in Tyrone and partly in Huntington townships.

Della Paxton, Huntington township, sold to Glenn A. and Reba A. Darr, same place, two properties containing 24-acres partly in Huntington and partly in Latimore townships.

Alexis P. and Adelaide Wood Minos, Franklin township, sold to Floyd and Ruth D. Sheets, Merrick, Long Island, a nine acre property in Franklin township.

C. Elizabeth and Webster Snyder, Mt. Pleasant township, sold to Harner and Mazie V. Fissel, Cumberland township, two properties containing 15 acres in Mt. Pleasant township.

Delphus F. and Mamie V. Meckley, Hamilton township, sold to Vinko V. and Rena Polz, Hamilton township, a 90 acre property in Hamilton township.

WILL IS FILED

The will of W. H. Riggeal, late of Franklin township, has been entered at the court house. The widow, Mrs. Gertrude Riggeal, Ortanna R. 1, is executrix of the $2,775 estate.

125 COUNTAINS ARE R. C. BLOOD DONORS FRIDAY

Because 78, or more than one-third, of the Adams countians who were given "appointments to save a life" at the Red Cross Blood Donor station Friday failed to appear, the number of donations was kept to 125, the smallest number received here in any month this year but yet above the average number received on each visit in 1943.

Friday's donors brought the grand total received through the Gettysburg center in the College Lutheran church basement to 1,670. Last year's total was 1,242 while 167 gave blood here in January and 136 in February.

Thirty-five persons gave blood for the first time here Friday and 34 made their second contribution of blood to be used to help meet the increasing need for plasma.

Silver Medals for 22

Twenty-two qualified for their silver medals as third-time donors and 34 others moved nearer "Gallon Club" membership by making their fourth, fifth and seventh visits. All donors received a small "Red Cross donor" emblem similar to the War Fund contributors' "sticker" for display in windows. Donors giving blood for the first time received a bronze button. Only 17 persons were rejected Friday, an unusually low number.

Mrs. Madelyn King, McKnightstown, who gave blood five times in California before coming to Adams county, was one of two persons making their seventh donations. The other was Hugh C. McIlhenny, Harrisburg road. There were no six-time donors Friday.

Those giving their fifth pint included: Mrs. Charles Rosensteel, Steinwehr avenue; Paul Arnsberger, Gardner; Mrs. W. A. Dillman, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. John W. Dear-dorf, Sr., Biglerville; John W. Dear-dorf, Sr., Biglerville; Clyde A. Williams, Arendtsville; Councilman Fred Hummelbaugh, Buford avenue.

HOWARD C. HARTLEY

Howard C. Hartley, merchant, churchman, husband, father and solid citizen has passed to his eternal reward. He lived four score years in plain and simple fashion. Without fanfare he devoted his life to his family, his business and his church.

Death, as it does to all men, came to him early Friday morning. He suffered a heart attack from which he never recovered. His passing was as simple and quiet as his very life had been.

Howard Hartley was a good man, an active churchman, a methodical business man and a good provider. He will be remembered for these noble qualities. He was modest and temperate in all things. He shied from public spotlight. His church work, his business and his own fireside were his worldly pleasures.

For more than a half century he maintained a business and operated it on a simple and even keel. The trend to modernism had no appeal for him. He even frowned on cash registers, preferring the old-style counter-cash drawers. He was an honest, upright gentleman of the old school and he treated his fellow man with tolerance and respect. His reputation for honesty and fairness was widespread.

He walked to and from his work four times a day. One could almost set his clock by his passing, so punctual was he in this and all other things. His life was as sound and as conservative as the merchandise he sold. Dependable to the ninth degree Howard Hartley enjoyed the respect and admiration of the entire community.

His passing came as a shock. His absence will be long felt. There is but one consolation. Howard Hartley, a good man, has gone to his justly earned eternal reward.

London, April 1 (AP)—The Berlin radio said today that Red Army spearheads have reached the northern approaches of Jablonica Pass, leading through the Carpathian mountains into Czechoslovakia. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The pass is approximately 15 miles south of Delatyn, captured by Russian troops on Thursday. Moscow's Saturday communique failed to mention any advances beyond that point. The Pass of the Tatars is a few miles east.

Berlin called the drive on Odessa from the north by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army a "strong Soviet offensive wedge," and described another Soviet force as aiming at Iasi, across the Prut river, and still another as operating on a broad front near Brody and Kovel in old Poland.

Drive on Odessa

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, April 1 (AP)—German and Rumanian resistance in southwest Russia was beginning to crumble today as masses of Red Army infantry, mobile units of tanks, and Stormovik bombers swept on towards three major objectives—Odessa, Tiraspol and Kishinev.

Front line Soviet dispatches said one intermediate line after another was cracking. These reports said many Rumanians were willingly surrendering as the Russians drove through middle Bessarabia toward Kishinev.

Wild confusion was reported in Odessa as Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian Army and Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army closed on the Black Sea port from the east and north-east and other units rushed for the Tiraspol railway junction on the lower Dnieper where they could cut the enemy off. The Soviets have captured the main outposts of Odessa.

Near Frontiers

At the northern end of the Ukrainian front, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's troops drew up before the Rumanian and Czechoslovak frontiers.

Soviet dispatches gave no news of any thrusts across the borders. Apparently Zhukov was consolidating his position as Konev did when he reached the Prut.

A Soviet communique said Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army was driving deep into the Odessa-Tiraspol sector after capturing more than 260 towns and hamlets yesterday—one of the largest single day's bag of the southern offensive.

Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian Army simultaneously was reported to have stormed the fortress town of Ochakov, 40 miles east of Odessa in a rapid advance on the great port from the east. Russian Marines aided in the operation, the communique said.

Rapidly shifting the main weight of its drive, the Red Army now appeared to be exerting the most intense pressure on the eastern end of the front in an all-out effort to clear the last remaining Germans from south Russia, dispatches said.

The patrol thrusting nearest to Imphal was operating eight to 10 miles ahead of the main force around Ukhrul, to the northeast.

The Japanese-controlled Singapore radio asserted last night that the Japanese had captured the Mashaon road junction between Imphal and Kohima.

ARMY RESERVE PROGRAM STILL A MOOT ISSUE

There are no new developments in the status of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program. It was announced today at the college. It is not known when the final orders for the closing of the Air Corps program will be issued. No new units have been received here in two months.

Washington, April 1—The War Department revealed today that more than 120,000 students in the Army Air Force air crew training program will be withdrawn from 81 colleges as of June 30, 1944. An additional number of students will be withdrawn from 11 civilian flying schools by August 4.

The Department said the action will affect only air crew students, that is student pilots, bombardiers, navigators, radio men and gunners, but will not change the status of AAF personnel currently in the Army specialized training program, the Army specialized training re-

In Pacific

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, April 1 (AP)—American naval task forces, including some of the more than 50 aircraft carriers just disclosed to be prowling the Pacific, were protected today by a radio silence which prevented reports of the devastation wrought on Palau, Japanese sea base guarding the approaches to the Philippines.

But more reports came of supporting air blows being rained on Truk, boldly bypassed by the fleet which moved 1,175 miles west of it to open the assault on Palau Wednesday.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, whose last word concerning the Palau operation was that "Our attacks continue," announced yesterday that five island strongpoints of Truk's atoll were pounded Wednesday night by Army Liberators of the Seventh Airforce.

In Italy

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 1 (AP)—Allied troops have made a sudden thrust in the ruggedly mountainous and long static central sector of the Italian front, advancing a mile and occupying Mt. Marone, a mile-high peak about 13 miles northeast of Cassino, headquarters announced today.

The height was seized by troops of unidentified nationality who smashed forward under powerful artillery support.

In Cassino, meanwhile, Allied heavy guns again shelled the monastery overlooking the devastated town and observers saw the walls collapsing around the German positions. Two German raiding parties—one about 40 strong—were beaten back from the vicinity of the Cassino railway station.

Shelled From Sea

Two American destroyers hammered the German positions near Carroceto on the Anzio beachhead and Allied infantry repelled a small but sharp attack on their left flank.

Artillery exchanges and patrol clashes marked the snowbound Eighth Army front. Small enemy parties were dispersed.

Allied Air Forces in Italy were forced by the weather to reduce their activities to about 650 sorties, but the systematic campaign to smash German communications continued with fighter-bomber attacks against bridges along the east coast of Italy. Two Allied planes were lost.

In Burma

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

New Delhi, April 1 (AP)—A Japanese patrol operating well ahead of its main force has stabbed to within a dozen miles of Imphal, Allied base on the Indian plain of Manipur, but the fighting on the approaches to the town has become somewhat stabilized on a wide arc as Allied air power dealt furious blows to the enemy columns.

The patrol thrusting nearest to Imphal was operating eight to 10 miles ahead of the main force around Ukhrul, to the northeast.

The Japanese-controlled Singapore radio asserted last night that the Japanese had captured the Mashaon road junction between Imphal and Kohima.

Admit Buying Tires Taken Here

Two West Shore men, arrested Tuesday for allegedly buying 15 stolen tires, among them tires stolen from Dale's Tire Shop, have admitted the charges, Justice William Dosh, Carlisle, said Friday. The justice said both indicated plans to enter pleas of guilty at the weekly sessions of Cumberland county court on Tuesday.

They are: Lewis A. Johnson, 26, of Camp Hill, who is in the County prison at Carlisle in default of $500 bail, and William R. Shank, 28, of New Cumberland. According to information lodged by state police from Harrisburg, Johnson accepted five new tires and one used tire, and Shank seven new tires and two used tires.

The tires, police said, were stolen by Frank Keleman, Harrisburg, from Dale Lawer, Harrisburg Road, and Wilmont Keller, Marysville. Keleman is being prosecuted in Adams county.

SOVIET ACTION SEVERE BLOW TO JAPANESE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Salute to Britain's Major General Orde Wingate who has been killed in action with his famous jungle fighters in Burma! He was one of the war's romantic figures—a fearless and adventurous soldier who loved the thrill of primitive combat. He was more than that, for he was an inspiring leader and the creator of jungle tactics which now are being put into use. His death is a great loss to the Allied cause.

Two points stand out as highly significant in connection with Moscov's move in forcing Japan to surrender her petroleum and coal leases on northern Sakhalin islands: (1) Moscow finally has used the big stick on Tokyo with a strong arm, and made the Nipponese like it; (2) on the face of it the Allies at war with Japan gain vastly through her loss of irreplaceable necessities.

Tokyo Weakening

The inference would seem to be that Japan is anxious not to start an argument with Russia. Why? Well, London interprets it as a possible sign of weakness on Tokyo's part. That's a natural conclusion and one which has substantiation in Japanese Premier Tojo's numerous warnings to his people recently that Nippon's position is grave.

True, Moscow grants Japan the privilege of taking away what oil and coal she has above ground in the leased territory, and agrees to furnish her with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years, after the European war. Still that's not a great boon. The amount of oil in store isn't known, but it isn't likely to be large, since Japan depended almost entirely on it for aviation gasoline and Sakhalin didn't provide enough for her needs. Furthermore, 50,000 tons is only about 350,000 barrels of oil—a mere drop in the bucket in comparison with Nippon's needs.

Blow To Japan

In short, Japan has suffered a nasty blow, since her principal remaining source of petroleum is Indonesia, which is a long haul from Japan proper. And modern war can't be waged without oil.

Thus Russia indirectly has given the American-British-Chinese team, and the other United Nations which are at war with Japan, most welcome assistance. In this connection a broadcast from Moscow quotes the newspaper Izvestia as saying that Russia, in driving this deal, gave "consideration to the special circumstances in the military situation prevailing in the Pacific for our allies."

However, the Soviet has tempered its two-fisted action with a valuable concession to Japan in granting a renewal of fishing rights in Russian waters for five years. From the Japanese standpoint that's almost humanitarian, since they are largely dependent on fish for food, and most of their fish comes from Soviet waters.

Chaplin Case To Jury On Tuesday

Los Angeles, April 1 (AP)—All the evidence is in, the rival lawyers are squared away for the final arguments, and next Tuesday a jury of seven women and five men will try to decide whether Charlie Chaplin, famous mime of the film world, has violated the Mann Act.

If already employed in war production the registrant was asked for the name of his employer.

General Wingate Killed In Crash

New Delhi, April 1 (AP)—Major Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, Britain's decorated warrior whose fabulous exploits in the Burma jungles won him the name of the "Lawrence of Arabia" of this war, has been killed in a plane crash in the jungles of the India-Burma frontier.

A brief announcement said that "the plane in which he was traveling crashed in our territory and the cause of the accident is unknown."

The 41-year-old Wingate, who planned and led the daring expedition which for four months last year played havoc with Japanese communications deep inside their lines in northern Burma, probably died on the night of March 23. His bomber disappeared on an 80-mile flight just before his leadership of the current airborne long range penetration of Burma was allowed to be disclosed.

They stopped 296 motor vehicles for various reasons and recovered $108 in stolen property, including six of the three stolen from Dale's ure shop near town. They conducted four state department investigations and spent 309 hours on criminal investigations and 681 hours on traffic duty. They traveled 11,225 miles in performance of their duties.

Enlisted Personnel
Enlisted personnel in the Army Air Forces now in training at colleges will be withdrawn on the basis of more than 40,000 students a month between now and June 30, the Department said.

These and students still in colleges after the June 30 expiration date will be assigned to on-the-job air crew training at airfields in the AAF training command while awaiting pre-flight instruction.

Army training facilities, the Department said, will be adequate to handle training requirements, after June 30 as a consequence of the release of 36,000 prospective aviation cadets to the Army ground and service forces and the suspension temporarily of enlistment in the aviation cadets reserve.

College training for air crews will not be entirely eliminated, the department said. The Army specialized training division plans to carry on instruction of 17-year-old enlisted AAF reservists within the Army specialized training reserve program.

or more. For 16 years the Brood I insects have lived on juices from roots of plants and trees. They are now ready to bore through the surface with the coming of warm weather to live in the open for about six weeks. Great swarms of the locusts will be seen at the height of their emergence in mid-June.

Tree damage by the pests usually is confined to the outer, tender twigs where the female locusts cut a series of long slits in the bark, in which to lay their eggs. These cuts eventually weaken the twigs so that wind and weather cause them to break, hang down and wither.

Affects Growth
"Damage to orchards can be great in some areas," Secretary Horst said. "Growing fruit helps break the twigs at the weak points and both foliage and fruit wither and spoil. This injury usually affects the growth of fruit for the next year."

"This is another economic risk that our fruit growers run, and its coming in wartime may prove to be serious, particularly in 1945. Along with the corn borer, our farmers of southeastern Pennsylvania are due to have their hands full this summer, for there are no known methods for effective control of the 17-year locust."

SOVIET ACTION SEVERE BLOW TO JAPANESE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Salute to Britain's Major General Orde Wingate who has been killed in action with his famous jungle fighters in Burma! He was one of the war's romantic figures—a fearless and adventurous soldier who loved the thrill of primitive combat. He was more than that, for he was an inspiring leader and the creator of jungle tactics which now are being put into use. His death is a great loss to the Allied cause.

Two points stand out as highly significant in connection with Moscow's move in forcing Japan to surrender her petroleum and coal leases on northern Sakhalin islands: (1) Moscow finally has used the big stick on Tokyo with a strong arm, and made the Nipponese like it; (2) on the face of it the Allies at war with Japan gain vastly through her loss of irreplaceable necessities.

Tokyo Weakening

The inference would seem to be that Japan is anxious not to start an argument with Russia. Why? Well, London interprets it as a possible sign of weakness on Tokyo's part. That's a natural conclusion and one which has substantiation in Japanese Premier Tojo's numerous warnings to his people recently that Nippon's position is grave.

True, Moscow grants Japan the privilege of taking away what oil and coal she has above ground in the leased territory, and agrees to furnish her with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years, after the European war. Still that's not a great boon. The amount of oil in store isn't known, but it isn't likely to be large, since Japan depended almost entirely on it for aviation gasoline and Sakhalin didn't provide enough for her needs. Furthermore, 50,000 tons is only about 350,000 barrels of oil—a mere drop in the bucket in comparison with Nippon's needs.

Blow To Japan

In short, Japan has suffered a nasty blow, since her principal remaining source of petroleum is Indonesia, which is a long haul from Japan proper. And modern war can't be waged without oil.

Thus Russia indirectly has given the American-British-Chinese team, and the other united nations which are at war with Japan, most welcome assistance. In this connection a broadcast from Moscow quotes the newspaper Izvestia as saying that "consideration to the special circumstances in the military situation prevailing in the Pacific for our allies."

However, the Soviet has tempered its two-fisted action with a valuable concession to Japan in granting a renewal of fishing rights in Russian waters for five years. From the Japanese standpoint that's almost humanitarian, since they are largely dependent on fish for food, and most of their fish comes from Soviet waters.

Chaplin Case To Jury On Tuesday

Los Angeles, April 1 (AP)—All the evidence is in, the rival lawyers are squared away for the final arguments, and next Tuesday a jury of seven women and five men will try to decide whether Charlie Chaplin, famous mime of the film world, has violated the Mann Act.

For five hours Monday, defense and government counsel will argue opposing views of the relationship between the 54-year-old actor and Joan Barry, 30 years his junior. Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor will give his instructions Tuesday.

Testimony was concluded late yesterday afternoon. Judge O'Connor then denied Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler's second request for a directed acquittal verdict.

Philadelphia 4-Fs Queried As To Work

Philadelphia, April 1 (AP)—Philadelphians classified 4-F in the draft—there are about 50,000 of them—today received letters from the U. S. Employment Service urging them to "do their share in winning the war" by transferring to jobs in essential industries.

The letters sent out from seven district U. S. Employment offices called for an explanation of why the registrant was not now engaged in war production, and asked him to specify his present status of employment. If already employed in war production the registrant was asked for the name of his employer.

Members of the Gettysburg substation of the state police made 16 arrests on traffic violations and eight for criminal charges during March, the monthly recapitulation of the patrolmen's activities shows.

The officers investigated eight accidents, a decrease in the number from previous months, made 19 criminal investigations and completed 276 patrols. They stopped 296 motor vehicles for various reasons and recovered $108 in stolen property, including six of the tires stolen from Dale's tire shop near town. They conducted four state department investigations and spent 369 hours on criminal investigations and 661 hours on traffic duty. They traveled 11,225 miles in performance of their duties.

serve program and the AAF ground crew training program.

Enlisted Personnel
Enlisted personnel in the Army Air Forces now in training at colleges will be withdrawn on the basis of more than 40,000 students a month between now and June 30, the Department said.

These and students still in colleges after the June 30 expiration date will be assigned to on-the-job air crew training at airfields in the AAF training command while awaiting pre-flight instruction.

Army training facilities, the Department said, will be adequate to handle training requirements, after June 30 as a consequence of the release of 36,000 prospective aviation cadets to the Army ground and service forces and the suspension temporarily of enlistment in the aviation cadets reserve.

College training for air crews will not be entirely eliminated, the department said. The Army specialized training division plans to carry on instruction of 17-year-old enlisted AAF reservists within the Army specialized training reserve program.

or more. For 16 years the Brood I insects have lived on juices from roots of plants and trees. They are now ready to bore through the surface with the coming of warm weather to live in the open for about six weeks. Great swarms of the locusts will be seen at the height of their emergence in mid-June.

Tree damage by the pests usually is confined to the outer, tender twigs where the female locusts cut a series of long slits in the bark, in which to lay their eggs. These cuts eventually weaken the twigs so that wind and weather cause them to break, hang down and wither.

Affects Growth
"Damage to orchards can be great in some areas," Secretary Horst said. "Growing fruit helps break the twigs at the weak points and both foliage and fruit wither and spoil. This injury usually affects the growth of fruit for the next year."

"This is another economic risk that our fruit growers run, and its coming in wartime may prove to be serious, particularly in 1945. Along with the corn borer, our farmers of southeastern Pennsylvania are due to have their hands full this summer, for there are no known methods for effective control of the 17-year locust."

Kennedy. Piles also must serve the remainder of an original five to 10 year sentence imposed for four similar robberies in 1939.

Beginning Monday, Ashenfelter said, the names of those who continue to violate OPA regulations will be turned over to a local price board for disciplinary action.

JIMMY DYKES PINS HOPES ON THORNTON LEE

By TED MEIER
New York, April 1 (AP)—Jovial cigar-smoking Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, may have one of his pitching worries erased from his mind today.

Southpaw Thornton Lee is scheduled to take the mound against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Louisville, Kentucky in the first of a two-game series. If the 6:03 porters show that an operation last fall has cured the source of his arm trouble the Sox hopes of winning the American league pennant will take a big jump.

In 1941 Lee won 22 games and lost 11 with an earned run average of 2.37. Then his arm trouble developed. He won only two games in 1942 and six last year.

Bear Mountain, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Bill Klem, chief of the National league's staff of umpires, is going to do a little spring training himself. Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said last night Klem would officiate in all remaining exhibition games on the Brooklyn schedule.

Great Lakes, Ill., April 1 (AP)—Sailors stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station again this season will see most of the major league baseball teams in action.

Lt. Mickey Cochrane, who is lining up his team after losing about all of his 1943 players, has arranged games with 14 of the 16 big league clubs. The two missing clubs are Washington and St. Louis Cardinals. They have no open dates in Chicago.

The sailors open their season April 23 against Michigan.

French Lick, Ind., April 1 (AP)—Jim Dykes, Chicago White Sox manager, has heard that his club has been picked to win the American league pennant. Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, and others have made the prediction and Dykes, when asked if they were right, answered:

"Probably they aren't, but if everybody gets the notion we're championship stuff and the other teams may scare so badly we'll pick up a lot of cheap victories. Maybe enough to make us champions."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 1 (AP)—About a year ago America's women bowlers presented to the Army an A-20 bomber plane, purchased with their nickels and dimes. . . . The Women's International Bowling Congress has just received a report on the plane's "enviable combat record." . . . In two months it engaged in 16 combat missions, striking against troop concentrations, destroying enemy ammunition dumps and engaging in a ground support mission coordinated with the landing at Seider. . . . It dropped 17,800 pounds of bombs and fired 1,298 rounds of 20 mm ammunition. . . . Next Saturday the bowling gals will present an ambulance plane to the Army Air Forces and they're collecting more nickels and dimes for another.

KEEPING THE TRADITION

Lt. Col. King Gill, reputedly the man responsible for the tradition that keeps Texas A&M cadets on their feet throughout every football game, now is flight surgeon at Majors Field, Greenville, Tex., and presumably is responsible for keeping the Air Force cadets on their toes. . . . The story is that Gill was very lowly but when the Aggies played center at Dallas, January 2, 1922, and was in the stands with the other cadets. . . . When A&M players, one after another, were forced out by injuries, Coach D. X. Bible sent for Gill and told him to suit up. . . . He didn't get into the game, but the summons was enough to create the tradition that every cadet should be on his feet, ready to go in there and play if called.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Will Wedge, New York Sun: "Yankee Outfielder Bun Metheny won a sewing set at a punch board game. It may be useful, as the team has a lot of loose ends that need stitching."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Word trickling in from the west coast is that Dan Topping has appointed Tom Gallery, the Los Angeles promoter, as business manager of the football Dodgers; and Gallery already has signed for four exhibitions that will enable the club to open the season with a profit instead of a $30,000 deficit. . . . Wally Butts, Georgia grid coach, was a recent visitor on the Notre Dame campus but wasn't lucky enough to find any boys flunking out of the Navy. . . . Charles I. Clegg, believed to be the only person who has seen every Penn relay carnival, will celebrate his 50th anniversary as a custodian of prizes this spring.

SERVICE DEPT.

Lieut. Col. Charles "Gordo" Davis, recipient of the congressional Medal of Honor for heroism on Guadalcanal, was pitcher on Alabama's 1938-40 baseball teams. . . . John McDonald, the Fallon, Nev., boy who would have been 1944 basketball captain at Rice, recently was commissioned second lieutenant in the Marines at Quantico. . . . Also in OCS at Quantico is Bill Cummins, the Rice hurdles star. . . . Latest addition to the Sampson, N. Y., Naval Training Station pitching staff is Jim Davis, ex-Newark Bear, who joins such elbowers as Johnny Vander Meer, Hal White, Bobby Combs, Red Todd from the Columbus Red Birds and various assorted minor leaguers. No guarantee that they'll all be there when the season starts.

GREAT LAKES IS FAVORED TO WIN SWIMMING MEET

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 1 (AP)—Talented Great Lakes should win the team championship with a tidal wave on points in tonight's closing round of the National AAU indoor swimming meet, but the Bluejackets' heralded Bill Smith has found a rival for individual honors in Adolph Kiefer.

Chief Specialist Kiefer of the Bainbridge Naval Station came through with an explosive performance in last night's five-event program, topping his own American record in the 300-yard individual medley by more than four seconds. His time of 3:23.9 tumbled the standard of 3:28.1 he fashioned at Honolulu in 1941.

Pacing Great Lakes to its 20-point total in the first half of the program, Smith easily retained his 220-yard free style title, but his shot at a new world record failed by nine-tenths of a second. However, Smith's 2:08 triumph toppled Alan Ford's 1942 record of 2:09.3.

Michigan Second

Michigan was second in the team standings with 12 points, with the rest of the field scattered far behind.

Other champions crowned last night were 17-year-old Joseph Verdeur of North Philadelphia YMCA who won the 220-yard breast stroke in 2:40.3, a second slower than the meet record; Charley Bateman of Columbia, National collegiate diving champion, who won the low board title, and Great Lakes' 400-yard free style relay team of Jerry Kerseher, Walt Ris, Dobson Burton and Smith.

Verdeur, a senior at North Catholic High in Philadelphia, also finished second to Kiefer in the individual medley to put North Philadelphia YMCA third in the point standings with eight markers.

Kiefer, who earlier this season set new world marks in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke, will try to lower his 150-yard world standard of 1:30.4 tonight as he seeks the crown wrestled from him last year by Michigan's Harry Holiday.

Also scheduled tonight are the high diving and 300 medley relay race.

FIND LONERGAN GUILTY SECOND DEGREE MURDER

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD
New York, April 1 (AP)—The glittering road which Wayne Lonergan traveled from modest circumstances into a world of wealth and luxurious living ended abruptly today—against prison walls.

The glitter faded on a gray morning last October when his attractive, estranged wife, Patricia, 23-year-old heiress to a $7,000,000 brewery fortune, was bludgeoned and strangled in her triplex apartment.

The terminus burst suddenly into view last night when, after a two-week trial, a jury of 12 middle-aged business men convicted the 26-year-old Canadian airframe man of second degree murder.

Sentence April 17
Judge James Garrett Wallace fixed April 17 for imposing a 20-year-to-life sentence which the verdict demands.

Towering above guards who flanked him on each side, the tall defendant stood calmly as the jurors announced their decision. They had deliberated nine hours and 40 minutes.

An associate defense attorney who waited with him in a detention room during the jury's deliberation, said Lonergan never became nervous or worried. Instead, the attorney said, he philosophized that "when your number is up, it's up."

Lonergan's voice was heard in the courtroom for the first time when he answered a clerk's questions for the filling out of a pedigree. He did not testify.

The state had fought for a first degree conviction, making death sentence mandatory, but Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet said the verdict returned was "fair and intelligent."

Defense Attorney Edward V. Broderick, who had pleaded that Lonergan was just "a simple care-free country boy," declined to comment.

Cites Confession
In his final plea to the jurors, Broderick charged that Lonergan had been duped by "city slickers of the district attorney's office" into making a confession that became the state's most damaging evidence.

He said Lonergan was fed liquor, threatened and promised protection from publicity.

Grumet heatedly denied this. Charging the jurors Judge Wallace told them no evidence had been submitted to support the defense contention.

The jurist also ruled out a prosecution argument that Lonergan already had made up his mind to kill the heiress when he went to her apartment while on week-end furlough from his RCAF training base at Toronto.

BEAU JACK IS WINNER OVER JUAN ZURITA

By FRITZ HOWELL
New York, April 1 (AP)—This is Beau Jack's 23rd birthday, and sometime before dusk he'll step into Uncle Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club office and pick up a $25,000 birthday present.

And that is no "April Fool" gag. The $25,000—or thereabouts—will be the ex-bootblack's bit of last night's $87,802 gate receipts at Madison Square Garden, where he pounded out a 10-round decision over Juan Zurita of Mexico City, the NBA's new lightweight champion who was making his first eastern appearance.

The clever and straight-punching Zurita made Beau Jack miss plenty of punches, but the gorgeous Georgian whittled out the verdict by having much the better of the infighting and by forcing the action all the way in the overweight, non-title scrap. Jack weighed 136, Zurita 133½.

George Parnassus, pilot of the Mexican scrapper, said he thought his boy won the fight. He also said he wasn't booking any more eastern appearances right now, but was leaving early next week for a rest in Mexico.

Beau Jack, with the Garden turned over to the circus starting Monday, must look for new gold fields to mine. It looks as if he'll tangle with Cleo Shans in Boston before long, and he also has a tentative date in Philadelphia for May, against an undetermined opponent, possibly Ike Williams.

Beau Jack came out of the Zurita fight with two injured hands, and a strained back. He hurt his hands hitting the Mexican, and hurt his back missing him, Beau said. Zurita only marks of battle were some rosy red spots around his mid section.

HAZLETON AND DUQUESNE MEET FOR CAGE TITLE

By WALTON CLOKE
Philadelphia, April 1 (AP)—Everything was ready today for the final act in the 1944 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament.

More than 7,000 rabid fans stood ready to crowd Convention Hall at 8 o'clock tonight. Hazleton High School's Mountaineers and Duquesne's Dukes were in the wings awaiting their cues. The curtain was ready to go up.

But before the action started the fans had plenty to talk about. Hazleton fans, who flowed into the city by rail, bus, auto and the not-so-reliable-now thumb were slightly gloomy. It appeared quite definite that the Mountaineers big, rangy, center and number one point getter Carl (Red) Meinhold would not see action against the Dukes.

Meinhold suffered a leg injury when the Mountaineers trounced Lower Merion here last Tuesday and Coach Hughie McGeehan said it would "be a miracle if Carl got in the game."

McGeehan didn't seem too worried over the loss of his ace baskeeter as he indicated that he had shifted his reserves and had come up with some new combinations that should prove troublesome to the Dukes.

The veteran coach was quick to point out, however, that "it's just a gamble from now on in."

The Pittsburgh fans were reassured by Coach Bill Lemmer that the Dukes were "in top form and will be able to give everything they have tonight."

JIMMY DYKES PINS HOPES ON THORNTON LEE

By TED MEIER
New York, April 1 (AP)—Jovial cigar-smoking Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, may have one of his pitching worries erased from his mind today.

Southpaw Thornton Lee is scheduled to take the mound against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Louisville, Kentucky in the first of a two-game series. If the 6:03 postscript shows that an operation last fall has cured the source of his arm trouble the Sox hopes of winning the American league pennant will take a big jump.

In 1941 Lee won 22 games and lost 11 with an earned run average of 2.37. Then his arm trouble developed. He won only two games in 1942 and six last year.

In League Camps
Brooklyn Dodgers—Mickey Owen, first string catcher, reported.
St. Louis Cardinals—Whitey Kurrowski, third baseman, pulled ancient hidden ball trick on Ken O'Dea in intrasquad game.

St. Louis Browns—Catcher Myron Hayworth reported. Flu-troubled Nelson Potter and tonsil-conscious Al Hollingsworth are still hospitalized.

Cleveland Indians—Mike Nymick, Hal Kline and Eddie Killeman are scheduled to pitch against Cincinnati on Sunday.

Washington Senators—Milo Candini, Dutch Leonard and Early Wynn were picked for mound duty against Martin Bormers today.

Chicago Cubs—Bruins hope to play their first exhibition game today against Detroit. Eddie Hanyzewski scheduled to start on mound with Hank Wyse and Johnny Burrows also slated for three-inning turns.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Manager Frankie Frisch said he intends to give all pitchers turn on mound to toughen them up. Xavier Rescigno, Johnny Gee and Rip Sewell probable hurlers against White Sox today.

Yorks Await Call
Detroit Tigers—Sluggish Rudy York probably will get final answer about Army service before Tigers break camp April 11.

Cincinnati Reds—First Baseman Frank McCormick slated to take Army physical examination today. Tony Ciesola slugged a couple of 400-ft. homers in batting drill.

New York Giants—Veteran Southpaw Carl Hubbel helped pitch in batting practice.

New York Yankees—Joe Buzas, a Newark farm hand, up from Bucknell university, was at second base in Yanks' indoor drill yesterday.

Boston Red Sox—Shortstop Skeeter Newsome and Catcher Roy Partee reported at Baltimore camp.

SPORT SHORTS

Bear Mountain, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Bill Klem, chief of the National league's staff of umpires, is going to do a little spring training himself. Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said last night Klem would officiate in all remaining exhibition games on the Brooklyn schedule.

Great Lakes, Ill., April 1 (AP)—Sailors stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station again this season will see most of the major league baseball teams in action.

Lt. Mickey Cochrane, who is lining up his team after losing about all of his 1943 players, has arranged games with 14 of the 16 big league clubs. The two missing clubs are Washington and St. Louis Cardinals. They have no open dates in Chicago. The sailors open their season April 23 against Michigan.

French Lick, Ind., April 1 (AP)—Jim Dykes, Chicago White Sox manager, has heard that his club has been picked to win the American league pennant. Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, and others have made the prediction and Dykes, when asked if they were right, answered:

"Probably they aren't, but if everybody gets the notion we're championship stuff and the other teams may scare so badly we'll pick up a lot of cheap victories. Maybe enough to make us champions."

Fans Boo Decision For Jake LaMotta

Chicago, April 1 (AP)—Jake LaMotta, rugged New York boxer recognized by the National Boxing association as the nation's No. 1 civilian middleweight, put in an extremely busy evening last night at Chicago stadium in taking a split 10 round decision from Army Sgt. Lou Woods of Detroit.

Many in the crowd of 6,402 which paid $18,704 booed the split verdict. Woods weighed 155½, LaMotta 162.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, April 1 (AP)—About a year ago America's women bowlers presented to the Army an A-20 bomber plane, purchased with their nickels and dimes. . . . The Women's International Bowling Congress has just received a report on the plane's "enviable combat record." . . . In two months it engaged in 16 combat missions, striking against troop concentrations, destroying enemy ammunition dumps and engaging in a ground support mission coordinated with the landing at Salador. . . . It dropped 17,800 pounds of bombs and fired 1,298 rounds of 20 mm ammunition. . . . Next Saturday the bowling balls will present an ambulance plane to the Army Air Forces and they're collecting more nickels and dimes for another.

KEEPING THE TRADITION

Lt. Col. King Gill, reputedly the man responsible for the tradition that keeps Texas A&M cadets on their feet throughout every football game, now is flight surgeon at Majors Field, Greenville, Tex., and presumably is responsible for keeping the Air Force cadets on their toes. . . . The story is that Gill was very lowly sub when the Aggies played center at Dallas, January 2, 1922, and was in the stands with the other cadets. . . . When A&M players, one after another, were forced out by injuries, Coach D. X. Bible sent for Gill and told him to sit up. . . . He didn't get into the game, but the summons was enough to create the tradition that every cadet should be on his feet, ready to go in there and play if called.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Will Wedge, New York Sun: "Yankee Outfielder Bun Metheny won a sewing set at a punch board game. It may be useful, as the team has a lot of loose ends that need stitching."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Word trickling in from the west coast is that Dan Topping has appointed Tom Galt, the Los Angeles promoter, as business manager of the football Dodgers; and Galt already has signed for four exhibitions that will enable the club to open the season with a profit instead of a $30,000 deficit. . . . Wally Butts, Georgia grid coach, was a recent visitor on the Notre Dame campus but wasn't lucky enough to find any boys flunking out of the Navy. . . . Charles I. Clegg, believed to be the only person who has seen every Penn relay carnival, will celebrate his 50th anniversary as a custodian of prizes this spring.

SERVICE DEPT.

Lieut. Col. Charles "Gordo" Davis, recipient of the congressional Medal of Honor for heroism on Guadalcanal, was pitcher on Alabama's 1938-40 baseball team. . . . John McDonald, the Fallon, Nev., boy who would have been 1944 basketball captain at Rice, recently was commissioned second lieutenant in the Marines at Quantico. . . . Also in OCS at Quantico is Bill Cummings, the Rice hurdles star. . . . Latest addition to the Sampson, N. Y., Naval Training Station pitching staff is Jim Davis, ex-Newark Bear, who joins such elbows as Johnny Vander Meer, Hal White, Bobby Combs, Red Todd from the Columbus Red Birds and various assorted minor leaguers. No guarantee that they'll all be there when the season starts.

GREAT LAKES IS FAVORED TO WIN SWIMMING MEET

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 1 (AP)—Talented Great Lakes should win the team championship with a tidal wave on points in tonight's closing round of the National AAU indoor swimming meet, but the Bluejackets' heralded Bill Smith has found a rival for individual honors in Adolph Kiefer.

Chief Specialist Kiefer of the Bainbridge Naval Station came through with an explosive performance in last night's five-event program, topping his own American record in the 300-yard individual medley by more than four seconds. His time of 3:23.9 tumbled the standard of 3:28.1 he fashioned at Honolulu in 1941.

Pacing Great Lakes to its 20-point total in the first half of the program, Smith easily retained his 220-yard free style title, but his shot at a new world record failed by nine-tenths of a second. However, Smith's 2:08 triumph toppled Alan Ford's 1942 record of 2:09.3.

Michigan Second

Michigan was second in the team standings with 12 points, with the rest of the field scattered far behind.

Other champions crowned last night were 17-year-old Joseph Verdeur of North Philadelphia YMCA who won the 220-yard breast stroke in 2:49.3, a second slower than the meet record; Charley Batterman of Columbia, Columbia collegiate diving champion, who won the low board title, and Great Lakes' 400-yard free style relay team of Jerry Kerschner, Walt Ris, Dobson Burton and Smith.

Verdeur, a senior at North Catholic High in Philadelphia, also finished second to Kiefer in the individual medley to put North Philadelphia YMCA third in the point standings with eight markers.

Kiefer, who earlier this season set new world marks in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke, will try to lower his 150-yard world standard of 1:30.4 tonight as he seeks the crown wrestled from him last year by Michigan's Harry Holiday.

Also scheduled tonight are the high diving and 300 medley relay race.

FIND LONERGAN GUILTY SECOND DEGREE MURDER

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD

New York, April 1 (AP)—The glittering road which Wayne Lonergan traveled from modest circumstances into a world of wealth and luxurious living ended abruptly today—against prison walls.

The glitter faded on a gray morning last October when his attractive, estranged wife, Patricia, 23-year-old heiress to a $7,000,000 brewery fortune, was bludgeoned and strangled in her triplex apartment.

The terminus burst suddenly into view last night when, after a two-week trial, a jury of 12 middle-aged business men convicted the 26-year-old Canadian airframe man of second degree murder.

Sentence April 17
Judge James Garrett Wallace fixed April 17 for imposing a 20-year-to-life sentence which the verdict demands.

Towering above guards who flanked him on each side, the tall defendant stood calmly as the jurors announced their decision. They had deliberated nine hours and 40 minutes.

An associate defense attorney who waited with him in a detention room during the jury's deliberation, said Lonergan never became nervous or worried. Instead, the attorney said, he philosophized that "when your number is up, it's up."

Lonergan's voice was heard in the courtroom for the first time when he answered a clerk's questions for the filling out of a pedigree. He did not testify.

The state had fought for a first degree conviction, making death sentence mandatory, but Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet said the verdict returned was "fair and intelligent."

Defense Attorney Edward V. Broderick, who had pleaded that Lonergan was just "a simple care-free country boy," declined to comment.

Cites Confession
In his final plea to the jurors, Broderick charged that Lonergan had been duped by "city slickers of the district attorney's office" into making a confession that became the state's most damaging evidence.

He said Lonergan was fed liquor, threatened and promised protection from publicity.

Grumet heatedly denied this. Charging the jurors Judge Wallace told them no evidence had been submitted to support the defense contention.

The jurist also ruled out a prosecution argument that Lonergan already had made up his mind to kill the heiress when he went to her apartment while on week-end furlough from his RCAF training base at Toronto.

BEAU JACK IS WINNER OVER JUAN ZURITA

By FRITZ HOWELL

New York, April 1 (AP)—This is Beau Jack's 23rd birthday, and sometime before dusk he'll step into Uncle Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club office and pick up a $25,000 birthday present.

And that is no "April Fool" gag. The $25,000—or thereabouts—will be the ex-bootblack's bit of last night's $87,802 gate receipts at Madison Square Garden, where he pounded out a 10-round decision over Juan Zurita of Mexico City, the NBA's new lightweight champion who was making his first eastern appearance.

The clever and straight-punching Zurita made Beau Jack miss plenty of punches, but the gorgeous Georgian whittled out the verdict by having much the better of the infighting and by forcing the action all the way in the overweight, non-title scrap. Jack weighed 136, Zurita 133½.

Rest in Mexico
George Parnassus, pilot of the Mexican scrapper, said he thought his boy won the fight. He also said he wasn't booking any more eastern appearances right now, but was leaving early next week for a rest in Mexico.

Beau Jack, with the Garden turned over to the circus starting Monday, must look for new gold fields to mine. It looks as if he'll tangle with Cleo Shans in Boston before long, and he also has a tentative date in Philadelphia for May, against an undetermined opponent, possibly Ike Williams.

Beau Jack came out of the Zurita fight with two injured hands, and a strained back. He hurt his hands hitting the Mexican, and hurt his back missing him. Beau said Zurita's only marks of battle were some rosy red spots around his mid section.

Injured Goalie To Play For Barons

Cleveland, April 1 (AP)—Coach Bud Cook of the Cleveland Barons will use the willing but disabled Paul Gauthier as goalie in the deciding game of the semi-final American League Hockey contest with the Hershey Bears at the arena tonight.

Gauthier, injured first-string goaltender who has been out since March 5, reported to Cook four days ago, and has been practicing lightly. Should he be forced out the Barons' defense would transfer to spare Lloyd Storie, who has turned in top-notch performances in the first six games of the series.

Tonight's game will break the 3-3 deadlock, and send the winner into championship playoffs with Buffalo next Tuesday. The victor will also receive $5,000 in prize money, while the loser nets $4,000.

HAZLETON AND DUQUESNE MEET FOR CAGE TITLE

By WALTON CLOKE
Philadelphia, April 1 (AP)—Everything was ready today for the final act in the 1944 Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

More than 7,000 rabid fans stood ready to crowd Convention Hall at 8 o'clock tonight. Hazleton High School's Mountaineers and Duquesne's Dukes were in the wings awaiting their cues. The curtain was ready to go up.

But before the action started the fans had plenty to talk about. Hazleton fans, who flowed into the city by rail, bus, auto and the not-so-reliable-now thumb were slightly gloomy. It appeared quite definite that the Mountaineers' big, rangy, center and number one point getter Carl (Red) Meinhold would not see action against the Dukes.

Meinhold suffered a leg injury when the Mountaineers trounced Lower Merion here last Tuesday and Coach Hughie McGeehan said it would "be a miracle if Carl got in the game."

McGeehan didn't seem too worried over the loss of his ace basketball star as he indicated that he had shifted his reserves and had come up with some new combinations that should prove troublesome to the Dukes.

The veteran coach was quick to point out, however, that "it's just a gamble from now on in."

The Pittsburgh fans were reassured by Coach Bill Lemmer that the Dukes were "in top form and will be able to give everything they have tonight."

Lemmer maintains that his only regret is that Meinhold might not get into the game. We want to play Hazleton "at full strength" he said.

The Dukes last night saw Lower Merion, the team that knocked them out of the championship in 1941, bow to Bartram high school of Philadelphia 43 to 36, and thereby lose the city district title.

An Evening Thought

That which refines character at the same time humbles, exalts, and commands a man, and obedience gives him courage, devotion and attainment.—Mary B. Eddy.

Just Folks

"APRIL FOOL"
Time was upon this curious day
(I wonder when it first began?)
I found my robes in disarray;
On foolish errands off I ran.
I telephoned to Mr. Fox.
To find him quartered at the zoo;
Kicked derby hats that covered rocks,
As still the unsuspecting do.

Time was, before our youngsters grew,
(How soon to better sense they come!)
I tried a cotton cake to chew,
And next a stick of wooden gum.
I stooped for purses on the street,
To have them snatched away from me,
And thought it very right and meet
A willing "April Fool" to be.

This day I'll bite a cotton roll,
(Time carries on these customs old.)
Find salt within the sugar bowl,
And very hot what should be cold,
And watched by two wide sets of eyes
That wait my deep chagrin to see

When I am taken by surprise,
A grandpa "April Fool" I'll be.

So give me salt instead of sweet
And turn my garments inside out;
Step traps for my unwary feet,
I'll chuckle as I hear them shout.
A fool of me that pair can make
So long as life in me remains.
The bargain's fair! I'll gladly take
Their love and laughter for my pains!

Today's Talk

COLOR

The Creator put a high value on color, for he scattered it all over the earth, almost wantonly—yet none too lavish. There can't be too much color anywhere—not even in our individual lives.

In Nature there is poetic color to everything—the Sunlight scatters it. In Sunrises and Sunsets color is riotous in form and beauty. From the earth comes our silver and gold and precious stones that almost thrill the soul. In every rock, from every hillside, from every mountain top, and along every roadside, color is to be seen.

I envy the dress of women. They can go to any extreme in color, so long as good taste is used, and not feel gaudy. I see no reason why color should be dropped from the gowns of women, merely because of age. It should be increased with the years! Grandma should cling to her youth. Why not?

I believe that color has more to do with the sale of a book than almost anything else—its appeal even surpassing the note of critics, who are so often wrong in their appraising. Let the wrapper at least, express joy and fiesta feeling. Let the book browser be tempted and happily ensnared!

It is easy to understand, as well, the influence and uplift of flowers that are sent to the ill, or discouraged. They are God's silent messengers of hope and cheer. In Nature they are forever awaiting discovery and appreciation. How colorful they are in the fields at Springtime. Those Texas Bluebonnets, and the lavish desert flowers that creep like colorful garments across endless acres. What natural poems!

The color of the sky, of the sea, of the forest, of the coats of tropic birds, of the grass, and of the skins of animals. Surely a great purpose behind the creation of each Aspiration would indeed be difficult without color to give it boost and power! Colorful lives would fade without it. There is a note of God in all color. But you have to carry Him around in your heart to get the significance.

Governor's Island in New York was purchased from the Indians in 1637 for $1.65.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

Literally and figuratively wartime gas isn't what it's cracked out to be. If you are in doubt as to whether a valve is sticking you'll find a handy test in the fact that suckage will be revealed by missing being very noticeable when the engine is running at low speed. There should also be missing on a hard pull after the engine has been raced. Suckage usually will be less noticeable after the engine is warmed up and the car is driven faster. But if a valve is warped its activity won't result in improvement. Any time the car is slowed down in high gear the miss will continue to be noticeable.

Running a Fever

Battling with an overheating engine is no fun, as I can assure you after a personal experience the other day, but it can be highly informative. I learned among other things that the engine could be kept below the danger point by careful handling, with a maximum of coasting, keeping the car's top speed (with the engine pulling) around 30 miles per hour, and stopping before climbing hills. If the car had sufficient momentum I would switch off the engine and let it coast as far up the hill as possible. Then after a five minute wait I would switch on the ignition and climb the rest of the way. The fact that the car coasted easily proved that the brakes did not drag. There was plenty of water in the cooling system, the fan operated, and peppy action proved that ignition timing was not late. No oil, water or service was available for a 30 mile stretch, yet I managed to keep the car rolling without the cooling system actually boiling over.

The story of my recent experience with an overheated engine would not be complete without telling you what actually caused the trouble. When a service station finally turned up along the road we went to work on the cooling system and found that the upper hose connections of the V-8 engine were clogged, water thus being too slow leaving the engine blocks. I think this merits consideration because so much attention is paid to the lower hoses which often collapse. The action in my case was similar to having a motor thermostat fail to open fully. One tip-off to trouble with the upper hoses is tendency for the engine to get quite hot yet without losing much water out of the radiator overflow. This is natural enough, when you come to think of it, because the radiator actually is not getting water as fast as it should.

Mechanic Joe Speaking
"Columbus never saw a land vehicle that propelled itself but his spirit of adventure is something all of us could use to good advantage today in trying to find out what's wrong with our cars. I was reminded of this by a customer who did a little preliminary checking before bringing in his car for the final job.

"He noticed that four of the eight plugs of his line-eight engine collected an abnormal amount of soot while the other four always remained clean. It occurred to him to try the four good plugs in those cylinders where the other plugs had gone wrong. This reversed the situation, proving to him that nothing was wrong with the plugs themselves, it was his clue to seeking another explanation for the trouble. That's how he discovered the carburetor was feeding an overrich mixture to half the cylinders."

Repairing a broken horn connection in the steering post may or may not be an easy job. It all depends on whether or not you have to take off the steering wheel. Should it be necessary to make a real job of this don't undertake to try forcing the wheel off with makeshift tools. You'll need a special wheel puller. It's a job for a service man with the necessary equipment.

I have the highest respect for servicemen especially in these days of such great demands on their time and patience, but there is one type of mechanic who habitually causes a lot of unnecessary grief and whose method, to me at least, seems indefensible. You can easily spot him. He's the fellow who belittles trouble. It may be music to your ears to be told that the engine really isn't overheating, that the electric heat gauge has simply gone bad, but the chances are that he is sending you away with false hopes. He tells you everything is all right, and a few miles down the road you have a real problem on your hands. You give him what any other service man would consider plain evidence of something serious, and he'll pass it off as "standard." He'll even suggest that there might be something wrong if you didn't notice anything. I don't know whether he's over-optimistic or just plain unaware of the meaning of those little clues that hint of trouble. Anyhow don't take him seriously. He'll surely be your day's biggest headache.

We hear a lot about battery connectors, straps and lugs, but the terms are so loosely used it is no wonder there continues to be considerable confusion. Let's get them straight.

A lug is an extension at the top of a battery plate. The straps hold the lugs together. In turn, the straps are provided with posts. Burned to these posts are the connectors. Incidentally, if the connectors are not properly burned to their posts there will be resistance and heating. This may account for mysterious failure of the battery to serve as intended.

Three to Remember

Once a year at least the radiator should be cleaned so that any bugs or leaves that have accumulated between its fins will be removed. This is done by directing compressed air against the radiator from the engine side.

If use of any of the car's electrical cal accessories causes the needle of the ammeter to show charge, when you might expect discharge, it simply means that the battery needs charging and that the current regulator has stepped up the generator output to take care of it.

There is just one way to fit a cotter pin properly. Fit its head in tightly and pound both of the split ends back over the end of the castulated nut.

Now that we are having to do some fancy tricks to keep cars rolling you should know the meaning of the word "skive." To "skive" a fabric you cut down from several plies to one, but in the rubber world when you "skive" a tire you cut down around an injury to a 45 degree bevel. When reinforcements are placed inside a tire to strengthen it these liners are skived to give the necessary bevel edge.

What's On Your Mind
Q. The engine of my car loses water continually, but there is no evidence of leakage. I have to put in a half gallon each day before starting out. G. N. McK.

A. Water never should be added until the engine is warm because of expansion of the coolant. This car is evidently losing water daily because when the coolant expands the excess goes out the overflow. However, this should not be a loss of more than about a quart. I would be a bit suspicious of an internal gasket leak, water leaking into the cylinders. This may occur only when the engine is hot.

Q. What is considered a safe limit of oil dilution? D. N. R.

A. I understand that the oil companies prepare their lubricants in anticipation of a 5 per cent dilution and that dilution seldom exceeds this. That is, any dilution above this percentage burns off as the engine operates. It should be apparent, therefore, that one of the essentials to good engine lubrication is to keep operating temperatures high and to minimize the percentage of cold driving when diluent is high.

Q. In replacing the lower water hose I was unable to leave the metal coil inside. With the coil in place I simply could not bend the hosing enough to affix it to the radiator and block leads. Will the hose collapse if I do not use the coil? C. C. M.

A. At wartime's low speeds you

An Evening Thought

That which refines character at the same time humbles, exalts, and commands a man, and obedience gives him courage, devotion and attainment.—Mary B. Eddy.

Just Folks

"APRIL FOOL"
Time was upon this curious day
(I wonder when it first began?)
I found my robes in disarray;
On foolish errands off I ran.I telephoned to Mr. Fox,
To find him quartered at the zoo;
Kicked derby hats that covered rocks,
As still the unsuspecting do.Time was, before our youngsters grew,
(How soon to better sense they come!)
I tried a cotton cake to chew,
And next a stick of wooden gum.I stooped for purses on the street,
To have them snatched away from me,
And thought it very right and meet
A willing "April Fool" to be.This day I'll bite a cotton roll,
(Time carries on these customs old.)
Find salt within the sugar bowl,
And very hot what should be cold.And watched by two wide sets of eyes
That wait my deep chagrin to see
When I am taken by surprise,
A grandpa "April Fool" I'll be.So give me salt instead of sweet
And turn my garments inside out;
Step traps for my unwary feet,
I'll chuckle as I hear them shout.A fool of me that pair can make
So long as life in me remains.
The bargain's fair! I'll gladly take
Their love and laughter for my pains!

Today's Talk

COLOR

The Creator put a high value on color, for he scattered it all over the earth, almost wantonly—yet none too lavishly. There can't be too much color anywhere—not even in our individual lives.

In Nature there is poetic color to everything—the Sunlight scatters it. In Sunrises and Sunsets color is riotous in form and beauty. From the earth comes our silver and gold and precious stones that almost thrill the soul. In every rock, from every hillside, from every mountain top, and along every roadside, color is to be seen.

I envy the dress of women. They can go to any extreme in color, so long as good taste is used, and not feel gaudy. I see no reason why color should be dropped from the gowns of women, merely because of age. It should be increased with the years! Grandmas should cling to her youth. Why not?

I believe that color has more to do with the sale of a book than almost anything else—its appeal even surpassing the note of critics, who are so often wrong in their appraisings. Let the wrapper at least, express joy and fiesta feeling. Let the book browser be tempted and happily ensnared!

It is easy to understand, as well, the influence and uplift of flowers that are sent to the ill, or discouraged. They are God's silent messengers of hope and cheer. In Nature they are forever waiting discovery and appreciation. How colorful they are in the fields at Springtime. Those Texas Bluebonnets, and the lavish desert flowers that creep like colorful garments across endless acres. What natural poems!

The color of the sky, of the sea, of the forest, of the coats of tropic birds, of the grass, and of the skins of animals. Surely a great purpose behind the creation of each. Aspiration would indeed be difficult without color to give it boost and power! Colorful lives would fade without it. There is a note of God in all color. But you have to carry Him around in your heart to get the significance.

Governor's Island in New York was purchased from the Indians in 1637 for $1.65.

ESCAPE from PARIS

Chapter 12
Since Johnny had watched Adrienne disappear from sight in the nave of the church, he had remained sitting in the same position. All about him worshippers rose from their knees and left the church. He wondered if Herr Schaefer was at this moment occupying a seat in the rear, or if he had gone, leaving someone else to guard the entrances. He recalled seeing a man who appeared to be following him. Adrienne was constantly in his thoughts. He felt anxious lest she should become implicated in his attempt to escape. Suddenly a hand was laid on his shoulder.

He looked up and saw the friendly smile of a white haired elderly priest, who bent down and said quietly, "Come with me. Adrienne awaits you in my little office. You must not attempt to leave here at present."

"When they had reached the passage leading to the sacristy, the priest turning to him said, 'It seems the Gestapo agent is guarding the entrances. He must have seen you come in here.'"

"I had an idea I was being followed, but I didn't suppose once I was in the church the agent could have recognized me in that dim light."

"No, it is hardly likely," Father Andre scanned the younger man keenly. "These Gestapo agents are very clever. They have evidently had orders not to outrage the dignity of the Church in France unnecessarily; so they prefer to make arrests outside its precincts."

Before opening the door of his office, Father Andre paused, his eyes on his companion. "My son, Adrienne tells me that you care deeply for each other."

Johnny, taken by surprise, did not reply instantly. His eyes lighted up as they met those of the priest.

"I care for Adrienne more than I can say, Father."

"She is a marvelous girl, and in my opinion the man who gets her will be very fortunate. It is in your favor, monsieur, that my dear friend, Pierre Dussault, thinks highly of you. Possibly I can perform the ceremony."

"Thank you, Father. Though Adrienne refuses to leave France at present, I feel it would be easier for us to part for a time if we belonged to each other."

As the priest entered with Johnny, Adrienne arose.

"Johnny, God has answered my prayer for your safety. This is my dear friend, Father Andre."

The priest shook Johnny's hand. "We have already become acquainted," he returned. "Adrienne," he said seriously, "Is it your wish that I should unite you and his man whom you love, in marriage?"

"Yes, if Johnny wishes it," she faltered.

Farrel caught her hand in his and drew her towards him.

"Then I will call Father Perri-gard to assist me, and witness the signing of the register," Father Andre said.

"But the ring—I have no ring," ex-

enger who followed them for several blocks, informs me they reached Henri's lodging house in safety."

A few minutes later she took leave of him, having requested him to make no mention of her marriage even to her uncle for the present.

While passing along the passage leading to the nave, she glanced down at the gold band on the third finger of her left hand, and with a pang drew it off, slipping it on the fine platinum chain that she wore about her neck, to which was attached a tiny silver cross. Only in this way could she keep her marriage secret.

ESCAPE from PARIS

by Marion McClure Stewart

Chapter 12

Since Johnny had watched Adrienne disappear from sight in the nave of the church, he had remained sitting in the same position. All about him worshippers rose from their knees and left the church. He wondered if Herr Schaefer was at this moment occupying a seat in the rear, or if he had gone, leaving someone else to guard the entrances. He recalled seeing a man who appeared to be following him. Adrienne was constantly in his thoughts. He felt anxious lest she should become implicated in his attempt to escape. Suddenly a hand was laid on his shoulder.

He looked up and saw the friendly smile of a white haired elderly priest, who bent down and said quietly, "Come with me. Adrienne awaits you in my little office. You must not attempt to leave here at present."

When they had reached the passage leading to the sacristy, the priest turning to him said, "It seems the Gestapo agent is guarding the entrances. He must have seen you come in here."

"I had an idea I was being followed, but I didn't suppose once I was in the church the agent could have recognized me in that dim light."

"No, it is hardly likely." Father Andre scanned the younger man keenly. "These Gestapo agents are very clever. They have evidently had orders not to outrage the dignity of the Church in France unnecessarily; so they prefer to make arrests outside its precincts."

Before opening the door of his office, Father Andre paused, his eyes on his companion. "My son, Adrienne tells me that you care deeply for each other."

Johnny, taken by surprise, did not reply instantly. His eyes lighted up as they met those of the priest.

"I care for Adrienne more than I can say, Father."

"She is a marvelous girl, and in my opinion the man who gets her will be very fortunate. It is in your favor, monsieur, that my dear friend, Pierre Dussault, thinks highly of you. Possibly I can perform the ceremony."

"Thank you, Father. Though Adrienne refuses to leave France at present, I feel it would be easier for us to part for a time if we belonged to each other."

As the priest entered with Johnny, Adrienne arose.

"Johnny, God has answered my prayer for your safety. This is my dear friend, Father Andre."

The priest shook Johnny's hand. "We have already become acquainted," he returned. "Adrienne," he said seriously, "Is it your wish that I should unite you and his man whom you love, in marriage?"

"Yes, if Johnny wishes it," she faltered.

Farrel caught her hand in his and drew her towards him.

"Then I will call Father Perriard to assist me, and witness the signing of the register," Father Andre said.

"But the ring—I have no ring," exclaimed Johnny.

claimed Johnny, as the thought struck him.

Father Andre arose and unlocking the drawer of a tiny cabinet on the wall, took from it a plain gold ring. "This will serve, he said handing the ring to Johnny."

Then he went out leaving them alone. Instantly he drew her into his arms.

"Sweetheart," he whispered, "it is wonderful to think that you will soon be mine, even if it will be only a short time before we are separated."

She clung to him as he kissed her. "That crafty Nazi thought it wiser to wait," he said, "but Father Andre will let me leave by a secret exit through the crypt. So we must hope for the best dear. By the way I present a sorry spectacle in this get up for a bridegroom," he added ruefully.

"That doesn't matter," Adrienne smiled. "I know how handsome you can look, my darling. Speaking of the secret exit, Father Andre can send a messenger before you leave to find Henri Boulanger and tell him to meet you at that entrance, so that you need not enter the market place. He is to take you for the night to a house on a side street opening off the Boulevard Sebastopol."

Afterward it seemed to Adrienne that the ceremony had had a dreamlike unreality. Mechanically she had made the necessary responses; and as if in a dream from which she must suddenly awaken, Johnny's voice, clear and strong, came to her, repeating, "I, John Farrel, take thee . . ."

The messenger who had been despatched by Father Andre to discover the whereabouts of the Gestapo agents, and to take the message to Henri Boulanger in stall 570, had returned. There was no sign of the agent in the vicinity at present, or of his men, and Henri was waiting for Farrel on the corner near the secret entrance. There was no time to be lost.

Those moments before the final parting now seemed so inextricably interwoven with happiness and pain, that the confused pattern of them was not yet clear to her. She could only recall broken words and phrases, the tight clasp of Johnny's arms, the pressure of his lips on hers, his repeated warnings as to the danger she ran in remaining in Paris, and his urging her to make plans to escape as soon as possible.

He had torn a leaf from a small notebook and written an address that would reach him in England. She had promised to write by means of the underground postal service, and if possible to join him later.

She still sat immovable in the little sanctum, to dazed to think. Then suddenly hearing footsteps in the outside passage she sat up listening intently, the beat of her heart quickening.

The door opened, Father Andre came in again.

"There is nothing to worry about at present," he said smiling. "Monsieur Farrel was immediately joined by Henri Boulanger. My mes-enger who followed them for several blocks informs me they reached Henri's lodging house in safety."

A few minutes later she took leave of him, having requested him to make no mention of her marriage even to her uncle for the present.

While passing along the passage leading to the nave, she glanced down at the gold band on the third finger of her left hand, and with a pang drew it off, slipping it on the fine platinum chain that she wore about her neck, to which was attached a tiny silver cross. Only in this way could she keep her marriage secret.

UNCONFIRMED

Pocatello, Idaho (AP)—Pocatello Army air bases weekly newspaper said the provost marshal's office was reported as suspending the pass system so enlisted men might come and go at will, provided they reported promptly for pay call.

Another story said advances on pay checks would be given without questions, and another said officers had agreed to a demotion by one rank to allow unlimited promotions of enlisted men.

The GI's read hungrily—until they remembered that today is April Fool's Day.

WMC AND DRAFT CHIEFS AT ODDS ON 4-Fs, JOBS

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 1 (AP)—This isn't April Fool, and we don't want to complicate things, but how good is Mr. McNutt's figure? We mean his figure on 4-F's.

Is the figure he's using—to show what 4-F's are doing now—17 months old and away out of date?

This week McNutt told the House Military subcommittee there are 500,000 men in 4-F in wholesale and retail trade, another 300,000 in service trades, and 50,000 selling insurance and real estate. That's a total of 850,000.

McNutt's WMC office told us the "vast majority" of that total is non-essential jobs. But how does McNutt know they're in those jobs?

Deny WMC Claim

WMC said McNutt got his figures from selective service and explained selective service is the only agency in government which would know.

But selective service told us it didn't know how 4-F's are distributed in jobs now. It said further it's just starting a survey to find out that very thing.

Rep. Costello (D-Calif.), chairman of the House committee, said he certainly didn't know, and that neither did selective service. He said he wants the figures when the selective service survey is complete.

WMC said the figures McNutt used before the committee not only were obtained from selective service but that agency got them through a survey of all the draft boards.

And selective service said the only survey it ever made on occupations was back in November, 1942, seventeen months ago, and that wasn't a survey on 4-F's at all.

Selective service added this: All it knows about 4-F's is that there were 3,620,000 of them on March 1. It doesn't know anything about their occupations.

MEET CHRISTINE!

New York (AP)—The War Production Board's regional office announced that "Christine," the mechanical ship sponsor, was a proven success.

The office said the mechanism, which automatically dashes be-ribboned bottles of champagne against ships at launchings, had "sponsored" dozens of barges at the Consolidated Shipbuilding corporation's yards at Morris Heights, New York, without a single miss.

PAGING A HERO

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—Lieut. Arthur S. Wood, 47, of Oakland was surprised when he received a medal and citation for devotion to duty as commanding officer of a mine sweeper in the landing at Salerno, Italy, last September.

He'd never been anywhere in the Mediterranean, nor had he commanded a mine sweeper. He had been in Cuba as a Navy photographer. He turned the award over to his commanding officer who's trying to find the right man.

THURSDAY

Ted Lewis, that "Medicine Man of the Blues" together with his laughing clarinet and the wild, uncharted syncopations of his music, happily toots himself into the Majestic Theatre on Thursday, in Columbia's fast-stepping musical jamboree, "Is Everybody Happy?"

Supporting players are headed by the beautiful and brilliant Nan Wynn singing herself to recognition with the Lewis band. Others who contribute to the gay happiness of this entertainment are Lynn Merrick, Michael Duane, Larry Parks, Bob Haymes, Dick Winslow and Harry Barris.
